

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

Exactly with the best Windows, Mac, Android and iOS games. Find a puzzle game where you can start directly, escaping-RPG or intensive strategic games. Get our tips on what is good, what is free and what to pay for. Candy Blast replace the aircraft of words darling sushi sushi arrow ryan toy toy piano for the ghostly hero of fire "drum help" for children who were dealing with free games on Android phones. First of all, a certain game with the Avia base is surprised by every absolutely nothing that is simply trade, but it is another justified reason for laughter about iPhone users. Although the tape of free names was undoubtedly adapted, the Android market is still full of lazy clones and dubious emulators. With this in mind, we used our level it is best to impress the five best presents at the moment. Research of these QR codes or shoulder code reader. Do not restrict to tell us about your favorite comments and read other free applications for Android HERE. Gmen, built on all cheap discounts on the Android market, are several real precious stones. This is especially easy to recognize because it actually has the word "pearl". Gem Miner has a pointed house for a seller indicating the search for ore. Take a backpack to reach rare objects, and then return to the surface to sell goods and return to more below the surface. The game is much more strategy than it seems. You need to manage resources (ladder, support, etc.) and improve your RPGs in the style of RPG. For many, gifts are also great fun and graphic cartoon. Restriction: 4 precious stone "and ends with" jewels "). You have a mesh made of colorful precious stones, and the idea is to adjust the line with three or more stones of the same color, clicking to go to the jewels. Get enough points and increase the level. Sounds - and it is very easy to play, but that doesn't mean it's less compulsive. Graphically, developers did a good job to improve it on a difficult chart. Level your salts with the best games on Windows, Mac, Android and iOS. Find a puzzle where you can jump, dodge or play intense strategy games. Receive our advice on what is good, what is free and what is worth paying. Candy Blast the Plane Word Chef Sushi Awesome Shooter Boy Ryan Toy Piano Tiles Ghost Fire Skull Hero Drum Pads Extreme Burning Asphalt. Moto All Of Me - John Legend Hop World Battle Flare - Fighting RPG Bogdan's Heart Quest Premium Jigs 2: Party Toys has inflated since the last time we watched free games on Android phones. First of all, a certain Aviaro game has arrived that surprised everyone and costs absolutely nothing, which is not only a real deal, but also gives iPhone users another legitimate reason for laughing. But while the free title bar has certainly increased, the Android Market game section is still full of rotten clones and doubtful emulators. In that spirit, we have done our best to find five of the best gifts currently available. Look for market titles or use the barcode reader application on the QR codes below. Do not hesitate to tell us about your favorite applications in the comments section and discover other free Android applications here. Gem Miner, who plunged into all the good deals on the Android market, has real gems. It is particularly easy to recognize because its name actually contains the word "gem". GEM MINER allows you to play a minor armed with axes to extract minerals. He digs to obtain precious objects, fills his backpack, then returns to the surface to sell your goods, while he is looking under the surface the rest. The game is much more strategic than it seems. You must manage your resources (stairs, support, etc.) and upgrade your RPG style tools. It's very funny and the comic graphic style is also a mile above most tributes. Evaluation: 4 gems without price to have guessed which popular gems are a compliant copy and end with "gem"). You will receive a colored gem grid and the idea is to match lines of three or more gems of the same color by exchanging gems. Win enough points to go to the next level. He looks - and is very easy to play, but that makes him no less convincing. Graphically, the developers have done a good job by going beyond some of the raw visuals that spoil many other free puzzle games in the world. Market. Aring: 4 Radiant Lite Radiant Lite, with Love, created an homage to early video games, mixing space invaders, asteroids, galaxies, multiplessess and other elements with nostalgic arrows. The game runs well in retro style, with famous angular aliens and vector asteroids, all in reliably brilliant colors. Playback is just as easy - follow left and right with a touchscreen or trackpad if your phone is equipped with it. Text conversations between levels are fun and knowledgeable. But they're also a very playable arcade shooter, and the free version offers an incredibly generous amount of content. Paid versions cost 1.20 lbs or 1.80 Gbits and add additional tiers or, in the case of more expensive graphics, higher resolution. Rating: 4 on the original film by a lightrunner, but disappointed that the (incredibly) first film isn't currently available on DVD, don't worry. Light Racer is a Tron-inspired game that prepares you to keep going without spending a crown. As the name suggests, the game recreates light cycles of the film. Your bike leaves the track - just like your opponent. The trick is to survive longer than the others without typing anything. Light Racer is simple and honest fun, although you'll have to pay for an "Elite" version (63p) if you want to play against anyone other than the CPU. Or should he be a master of control? Rating: 3.5 Angry Birds for three people on the planet who haven't played Angry Birds until they needed an index, it's a terrifying game consisting mostly of a series of even more fiendish physical puzzles. In each stage, you'll be challenged to scare away different birds, each with special abilities, evil green pigs, and structures they're perched on. Goggles are rewarded for cracking pigs and breaking other things; Stars are awarded for completing up to three stages. It's the exact same game that iPhone users have been searching for millions of times - and Android phones are completely free. Check out the same free Angry Birds seasons page and if you get stuck check out our bird guide. Note: The 5 best Android games cover many areas. Are you looking for adventure games, arcade titles, puzzles or jumpers, there is something for everyone. There are many things but not all of them are great. To help you, we tried, appreciated and made the best choices to miss those broken console ports and boring puzzle games and choose amazing touch screen games. We also reviewed these games to find out where they are related to the costs. Some of the best free Android games may have this sticker on the Google Play Store page, but you'll have to buy the game in the app to unlock the game. If so, we will inform you that the game is not really free. Forward and review the best Android games divided into popular genres today, including strategy, puzzle, race, arcade and more. You will definitely find another game for your smartphone, even if you don't want to play your games on the phone. And remember to mark this page as we have a new game every month. Android Games - Best Month Games - Bossgame: The Boss Is My Heart Why You Can Trust: Techradar Our Expert Reviewers spend hours trying and comparing products and services to choose the one that suits you best. Learn more about how we test. (Image Credit: Lily Valeen) ($ 6.99 / $ 7.49 GBP / 11.99 AU$) Bossgame (opening in a new tab) is a unique set of play style based on sword priest and fire witch, fighting him with various horrors. These battles take place on separate screens using buttons temporarily attack, protect the heroes and send the life force of the active fighter when the other is incapacitated. When playing, it is very similar to a rhythmic action, but not as a blow along with the fighter blocking and repair. Also, despite all animated graphics, gloomy dialogues and jokes, the game is complicated. Fortunately, the game recognizes it and you can move on to settings to make your life easier until you become a certified demon killer. 1. This skillful solution turns the game from "failed" to a necessary, unique and attractive offer, without which no Android player can do. The best Android race games are our favorite "top to bottom", 3D and retro racing games for Android. (Video credit: noodlecake) Descenders ($ 9.99 / 9.99 £ / 14.99 AU$) on a mountain bike. It is interesting from the start, trying to reach the checkered flag, not leave the driver in a crushed pile with one too much poorly thought out. Given the origin of the game, the controllers are complex and the gamepad helps, but if you use the phone alone, you can do a lot of complicated tricks with enough practice. However, the procedurally generated nature of the game world means the odds will always throw up surprises. With plenty of challenges and trials, Descenders will keep you busy late into the night. It's also smart enough to provide some level of realism, but not to the point where the game becomes slavish. Instead, it's an arcade game that draws as much from the game as it does from the real world. (Image credit: Playrise Digital Ltd) Tabletop Racing: World Tour ($5.99 / £4.79 / AU$9.99) Tabletop Racing: World Tour is a fast-paced racing game that lets you drive small cars around tracks made of fairly massive household items. It's like the offspring of Micro Machines and Mario Kart. The race is extremely competitive, and you'll find of weakened opponents with clever maneuvers and unsportsmanlike weapons as you race madly to the finish line. While there are options to upgrade the vehicle to better compete on tougher tracks, the World Tour has no IAP. Instead, your skills will earn you checkered flags and eventually enough cash to buy new luxury cars. With simple yet responsive controls, this Android game is a breath of fresh air on a platform where arcade racing is often about wallet depth and track skill. (Image credit: Feral Interactive) GRID Autosport ($9.99 / £9.99 / AU$14.99) GRID Autosport is a race car but also a challenge Android gamers complain they never get top quality titles and the free price is full of ads and IAPs. It's a fully featured, ad-free, premium game that's untouched on your phone (if your phone can run it - check the list on the game's Google Play page). Even on PC and consoles, GRID Autosport was an impressive launch. After about five years, it's no less amazing than a mobile title as you complete around 100 laps and fight all kinds of cars. Remember, this is a simulation. It won't be easy and won't let you blast through walls at top speed and drive as if nothing happened, but the handling aids will help you have what is arguably the best premium racing experience in the world. Android. (Image credit: Pixelbite) Pushback ($1.49 / £1.59 / AU$2.39) Pushback exists in a future where drivers drive their cars too fast; instead, they are placed in an experimental airship that has gone insane. Track design traditions have also been abandoned, with flat tracks replaced by roller coaster-like designs that will turn your stomach in style. It starts with time trials going through certain colored doors and ends with AI opponents sometimes unconvincingly hitting them with weapons. There is a sci-fi story of synthetic men and Society, but really it's all about speed. First Twitchy Controls detects that you crash repeatedly and asks if someone should take away your pillow license. But master the tracks and control and the Reprise becomes a thrilling experience as it bombs across the finish line. Rush Rally 3 ($3.99 / £3.99 / AU$6.99) Rush Rally 3 brings racing to the Android console. For quick bursts, you can dive into single-player rally mode with the driver by your ear. Or there's jagged metal with a rally that binds you to computer machines, seemingly fueled by aggression. If you've been around for a long time, dive into career mode. None of these options will matter if the race isn't decent. Fortunately, it's really good. The game looks the part, with some very clever visuals and vantage points, whether it's on the racetrack or hurtling through the woods. The controls work well too, offering a range of settings to suit a range of preferences (tilt, virtual buttons). And skill levels. All in all, enough to earn the game that coveted checkered flag. Horizon Chase (Free + $2.99 / £2.79 / AU$4.09 IAP) If you're tired of more attention-grabbing racing games, hit the tarmac. Hunting. This homage to old-school arcade titles focuses on the pure joy of racing rather than boring realism. The graphics are vibrant, the soundtrack is fun and cheesy, and the racing constantly pushes you to the front of an aggressive pack. If you fondly remember the Lotus Turbo Esprit Challenge and Top Gear, don't miss it. (Note that Horizon Chase gives you five tracks for free. One is available for £2.29 / $2.99 to unlock the rest. Free to launch on the console versions of this title will be miserable, but it needs speed: But Wanted is one of the best Android games of its type. Yes, the rails are linear, only with a strange cup, but in reality the race is great. You run in a gloomy and gray city of Erchu streets, trying to win events that will equally strengthen your ego and your reputation. The benefits restore cash, allowing you to buy new vehicles to attend special events. The game looks great on Android and has a high octane index soundtrack to continue. But it depends mainly on the control devices - a running jet and effortlessly drifting mixture, making you very close to the Outrodes 2 than the usual optimal mobile race. Rippide GP: Renegade ($ 2.99 / $ 3.99), the first two Rippide games forced you to surf on wavy sailors surrounded by great metal towers. Rippide GP: Renegade offers a new episode of dynamic futuristic racing, but this time you dive into the bottom of this sport. Quick, but also organize a huge show for every case you have. If you hit a ramp or a wave that will encourage you in the air, it is best to turn or make a pear tree to hide. Smart runners get nothing. In your career mode, you make money, improve your car, and possibly ignore some boring intrigue. However, the race is great - refreshing the combination of old arcade and intellectual mobile tactile screen. Tiny vehicles that create claustrophobic paths that rotated and go obviously to force you to hit the walls several times. Cars drive more than remote cars controlled as real cars, which means that the race is usually solid - and easy to lose if you leave your eyes for a while. There are many content here - dozens of competitions in several environments. You drive through the ruins and run along the coastal paths. PGs can sometimes be a little too aggressive, but you will get more than an irregular flag when you use Smart Car improvements and use nitro stimuli. Speed Need: Hot Performance ($ 4.99 / 4.99 £ / 7.99 with USD). Speed Need: Hot Performance exists in a world where the police look completely normal to use their cars to save criminals in the competition. And if you are not doing this, archers run the streets to decide who pays for the donuts of the day. Pass the landscape, turn into other cars and run a strange trap - but Chase H.Q. Refreshing, air sources, funny and joking nitro, classic riders, such as hunting, can play such a career as persecuted, which are similar to criminal shoots that are not completely covered with a guarantee of their car manufacturer. 0.99 $/79 Pensa/0.99 AU $) The final autoretic 2R is a racing retro - game, which is clearly inspired by the classic Sega Outrun. On the red car, a street of a tearful belt, where everyone is suspicious in one direction. They allow themselves to choose your route by creating a fork. Meanwhile, the kitschik comes from the speakers of your device. For old hands, they become a kind of paradise. This game is better than inspired, which seems more smooth and sophisticated. If you are used to getting a more realistic tariff, Final Freeway 2R is a good choice. You can feel like an altered spacious attitude, colorful appearance and the need for really crazy speed.

