Global outreach charter academy

GOCA will undergo significant changes as it transitions into Global Leadership Academy (GLA), with each school maintaining its unique identity while focusing on global leadership development. GOCA K8 will become GLA Discovery, retaining Russian and Spanish language programs, while enhancing science, technology, and leadership coursework. GOCA HS will become GLA High School, preparing students for college and community impact through entrepreneurship, arts, and leadership courses. GOCA Intercoastal will remain a high-quality academic institution with language, arts, and character development offerings. GOCA Arts will introduce arts integration and stand-alone arts courses. The administration encourages feedback from parents and promises to address concerns. As we look to expand our global footprint, The Global Academy of South Carolina is experiencing a surge in demand from prospective students, with many already on our waiting list. Our commitment to delivering a unique educational model and serving the needs of underprivileged children, including those from low-income families and immigrant communities, has earned us widespread recognition and respect from parents, educators, and entrepreneurs alike. With our focus on providing high-quality education, we're grateful for the chance to make a meaningful impact on the next generation alongside school staff, parents, experts, partners, and sponsors. By working together, we can achieve great things that benefit American society as a whole. Please note that application submissions are due by February 1st, 2025, with lottery dates set for February 1st and 15th of the same year. All students, regardless of race, color, national origin, religion, or gender, are welcome to apply. For more information on enrollment updates, please contact our main office.
