

Continue

NASA Mobile Menu Find Help & Support Substance Use Mental Health Communities Technical Assistance Grants Data Libraries About Note: NAMI volunteers are not medical or mental health professionals, and we cannot offer medical or mental health advice. The material outlined below is informational and we hope that it helps provide guidance toward getting support. An inpatient or residential treatment facility may be helpful if your mental health symptoms have made it difficult for you to stay safe, fulfill responsibilities at home, work, or in your community, or take care of your basic needs like eating and hygiene. A good place to start with finding a residential treatment facility in your area is to talk with your therapist or psychiatrist. You can also dial 2-1-1 or contact your local NAMI affiliate to learn of inpatient treatment facilities in your area. Try speaking with others in your community, including other members of support groups you may attend, to get recommendations for treatment facilities that have been helpful to them. Some inpatient/residential treatment programs exist in publicly funded hospitals or within the community mental health system of services in your county. If you visit your local emergency department or community psychiatric facility in crisis, you may be referred to an inpatient or residential treatment program. Other residential treatment programs are private and require payment out of pocket. Families who can pay out of pocket may find success searching online for residential mental health treatment in [city] [state]. If you are a parent seeking residential treatment for your child or teen, visit NAMI's Residential Treatment webpage to read about indicators that residential treatment may be appropriate for your child and considerations for finding a program that is a good fit. Use the resources below to find inpatient and residential treatment facilities in your area: SAMHSA Treatment Locator is a federal agency website that provides referrals for substance use disorder treatment facilities. SAMHSA is a good resource for locating low-cost/sliding scale mental health care, substance abuse and dual diagnosis facilities. SAMHSA's Treatment Locator can narrow search by insurance, cost of treatment and type of treatment. Their website also includes programs like assertive community treatment and residential treatment. You can reach SAMHSA at (800) 662-4357; Spanish-language calls are accepted. SAMHSA offers a Find a Treatment Facility Near You locator function. Search by city or zip code; filter results by type of treatment, payment options, ages served, languages spoken, special programs (e.g. veterans, LGBT, services for deaf and hard of hearing), and more. Once you have identified a provider, contact your insurance company to verify coverage. Psychology Today offers a Find a Treatment Center locator function to search for treatment facilities. Once you have identified a provider, contact your insurance company to verify coverage. American Residential Treatment Association offers a Find a Residential Mental Health Facility locator function that is searchable by program type and location. Please note that the resource lists both private and public facilities in a limited number of states. Private facilities may come with high out of pocket costs. Hours of operation: Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. 10 p.m. EST Call: 800-950-NAMI (6264) Text: 62640 Email: helpline@nami.org Website: www.nami.org/help For some that was a sense they were becoming too reliant on alcohol in their life, for others it was needing to develop the skills and personal resources to navigate challenges with their mental health. Every person is equally important. Find out what support is available to you, whether that's online, over the phone, or one to one through the network of our local community services. Avondale's 60 Acts of Kindness Skip to Content Skip to Content Alcohol addiction services can help you reduce or stop your drinking if it's affecting your life or your health. Alcohol addiction services include: support to help you stop drinking, rehabilitation, counselling and cognitive behaviour therapy (CBT), group therapy, self-help. Well ask you where you live in England. This is so we can find the right services for you. Start now By using this service, you are agreeing to our terms of use and privacy policy. If you do not live in England visit NHS Inform for Scotland, NHS 111 for Wales or HSCNI Online for Northern Ireland. Page last reviewed: 20 January 2022 Next review due: 20 January 2025 Recovery.org.uk is an integral part of UKAT Groups Recovery Network, providing trusted information, guidance, and support for individuals seeking help with addiction. We believe that with the right help and support, anyone can successfully overcome their addiction and go on to lead a clean and sober life. Our goal is to provide clear, accurate, and supportive information to those struggling with addiction and their loved ones, helping them take the first step towards recovery. UK Addiction Treatment Centres (UKAT) is one of the UK's leading providers of private addiction treatment, operating eight CQC-regulated clinics across the country. These facilities offer comprehensive, evidence-based treatment programmes tailored to meet each individual's unique needs. With a team of dedicated medical professionals, therapists, and support staff, UKAT is committed to delivering high standards of care in a safe, welcoming environment. We provide treatment for a range of addictions, including alcohol addiction, drug addiction (such as cocaine, heroin, and prescription drugs), gambling addiction, and behavioural dependencies. Our programmes include inpatient rehab, one-to-one therapy, group therapy, and holistic treatments, ensuring a comprehensive approach to long-term recovery. Direct Admissions with UKAT UKAT manages all communications in-house, ensuring that individuals receive direct, accurate, and transparent guidance from our experienced admissions team. Our team members have either extensive experience in addiction support, have been through recovery themselves, or have helped a family member on their journey. When discussing treatment options, we will always explore whether a UKAT rehab facility is the right fit for you. However, we understand that everyone's journey is unique, and if we feel that another service may better suit your needs, we will gladly refer you to a trusted alternative. We do not receive any fee for referrals; we do this solely to ensure you receive the best possible support for your recovery and maintaining full control over the quality of care we offer. Our mission is to help you find the best path, whether that's with UKAT or elsewhere. NOTE: While Recovery.org.uk is part of the UKAT Groups Rehab Network, this site also lists other rehab facilities for informational purposes. Clients may choose to contact these facilities directly if they wish. However, please note that some details may be outdated or subject to change, and we recommend conducting a local search to obtain the most up-to-date information.

Substance use treatment facility locator. Samhsa substance abuse treatment facility locator. Substance abuse facility meaning. Substance abuse treatment near me. Substance abuse treatment facilities. Substance abuse treatment locator. Alcohol detox near me. List of substance abuse treatment centers. Substance abuse treatment facility definition.