Season 1Haley is described by Claire as being very much like her when she was a teenager, so she tries to prevent Haley from making the same mistakes. Haley starts dating Dylan in the first episode. Claire is disappointed with Haley's choice of boyfriend, due to his low intelligence, lack of manners, and the age difference between them. She keeps an eye on Haley's relationship, which Haley is continuously annoyed by. Phil likes him and is happy with Haley dating Dylan, but is wary of them moving too fast and tries to make sure nothing sexual happens. He is highly protective of Haley but struggles to keep up with her, which makes it easy for Haley to manipulate him. However, she rarely gets anything past Claire.Haley gets her learner's permit and learns how to drive from her parents, but she is a dangerous driver who doesn't learn from them so they get her another instructor. She is afraid of failing on a driver's test, but ultimately passes. Haley frequently bickers, and Alex tends to have the upper hand due to her ability to manipulate and annoy Haley (once convincing Haley she would lose a girl with tattoos in "Fibzo") but Haley also annoys Alex (falsely believing Alex read her journal, she defiled Alex's signed poster and Alex stated she would never forgive her in "New in My House"). She has a better relationship with Luke as he never intentionally does anything to annoy her. Her step-uncle Manny develops a crush on her ("Great Expectations") which she finds gross and shuts down but also uses to her advantage a few times.Season 2Dylan wins Haley back after performing a song outside her house on Valentine's Day. Haley tells her family that she does not want to go to college because she believes it's a waste of time. But she later explains to Alex that she's scared about leaving high school since she's barely passing the 11th grade.Season 3While vacationing with the family in Wyoming, Dylan proposes to Haley in front of her entire family. Claire immediately says no for her, causing tension in their relationship since Haley believes that her mother won't let her make her own decisions. However, Haley reveals to Claire that she was going to say "no" to Dylan's proposal anyway but wanted the choice to. Haley and Dylan break up once again. She is afraid that she won't be accepted into a college, but she is wait-listed by a college at the end of "Election Day". After months of waiting and finally accepting that she won't be accepted into a college, she decides to move in with Dylan after she graduates. Luke confesses though that he hid her acceptance letter (along with a lot of other mail) because he doesn't want her to go. After finding out that she is, in fact, going to college, she and Dylan decide to go to prom.Season 4Haley finally goes to the college ("Schooled"). But is kicked out for underage drinking and (accidental) battery of a police officer. She then moves back in with her family and starts having to deal with the pressure from her parents to attend community college, go to work and get her life together in general before she is able to re-apply at the college next semester.Season 5Haley is back living with her parents and attending community college. In "Three Dinners" she is pressured by her parents who do not believe she has any future plans or a career and she proves them wrong by revealing her interest in fashion photography, and the blog she is keeping on her own. In "Isy", her work is featured in a photo gallery exhibit with her class choosing her photograph for the first time. Although initially, they don't completely hit it off, as the day continues, they seem to have developed a mutual liking for one another as evidenced by their playful banter and friendly teasing. As the season progresses, so too does Haley's feelings for Andy. In "Other People's Children," Haley steps in as a stand-in for Andy's girlfriend Beth for the video love letter he's making for her with Phil's help. Andy lifts Haley up and holds her in his arms and looks deep into her eyes as he recites how much he loves his girlfriend. The look on Haley's face confirms she is beginning to fall for the nice guy. Later, Haley watches Andy lovingly as he and Phil reenact the movie "Gravity." She tells Alex, "It's weird. There's something about her." Alex replies, "Yeah, he's just like Dad." Despite this comparison grossing Haley out initially, she can't seem to stop the feelings she is developing for Andy. In "The Wedding (Part 1)", Haley agrees to drive Andy to the airport. When Andy's phone rings, he asks Haley to answer it because he doesn't want to put their lives at risk since he's driving. Haley reads a text that his flight has been delayed and also sees a text from Beth telling Andy that it's over. At the coffee shop, Haley confronts Andy about the text message and if he is sure about getting on that plane. Andy tells Haley that Beth just likes the drama and that Haley should drop the issue. In "The Wedding (Part 2)," Haley can't stop checking her phone due to concern about Andy. Alex confronts Haley about her feelings for Andy, which Haley denies. Alex finds the whole thing hilarious because Andy is not Haley's usual type. Haley returns to the coffee shop and tells Andy he "deserves better" than Beth. After returning to the new wedding venue (Cam and Mitch's house), Haley keeps checking her phone for updates on Andy. She tells Alex she is going to invite Andy to hang out at the wedding. Alex warns Haley that she better know what she is doing. Alex tells her, "Here's the thing about nice, quiet dorks like me, you get over us much faster than we get over you." With Alex's warning fresh in her mind, Haley meets Rainer. She while doing her father's makeup for TV. Later, Phil and Claire open the door to find Rainer and Haley kissing. When Haley says Rainer said Phil gave him her number, he realizes that he unknowingly set them up. Phil accepts them and Haley continues dating him. In "Thanksgiving Jambovee", when Rainer informs Phil and Claire that he and Haley have booked a trip to Cabo, Phil becomes passive aggressively mad at them that she's leaving her family to go on a trip with Rainer. He later confides in her that more of her life is happening away from him and it's normal and good, but it's hard." In "The Alliance," Haley begins to attempt to bond with Rainer's teenage daughter, April. However, it proves to be difficult as April already doesn't like Haley or think their relationship will last. After taking every single mean comment from April all day, she snaps and begins being tough on her, which works as April begins to do what she says. Haley then receives parenting praise from Claire. In "Do You Believe in Magic?", Haley goes drinking with her uncles and Sal, she sees Rainer with a woman. Mitch and Cam encourage her to confront him about it, and push her to stand up for herself. She confronts them and the woman says they're on a date, she breaks up with him, walks off and goes with Sal to trash Sal's exes' boat. Rainer explains to Mitch and Cam that he was pretending to be on a date with her to get her to take down a really bad looking photo of Haley, in which Cam described her look as "Bedhead, sneeze face, and UGG slippers?". Mitch and Cam inform Haley, she becomes mad at them for encouraging her to confront him and calls Rainer to apologize. In "Do It Yourself", when Claire cooks a meal badly, replacing sugar with salt while not really watching the chef she's supposed to be following. Phil asks Haley to fix Claire's cooking. She can't do it, but she finds out that the person Claire watches cook was in town teaching lessons and takes her so he can tell Claire how bad her cooking is. When the chef informs her she's just a bad chef, Claire brings Haley to confirm her food is fine. Haley feels sorry for her and lies that it's good after Claire explains that she does so much away from her family that her cooking is the way she expresses her love for her family. As Claire continues cooking badly, Phil scolds Haley, telling her she had one job. In "Heavy is the Head", after lying to Rainer that she loves Game of Thrones, he invites her to Comic Con and she realizes she is in trouble and can't watch Game of Thrones in enough time. She sits with Manny, who informs her about everything she needs to know in the series. In "Finding Fibzo", Haley works out that Alex is in a secret relationship, and encourages her to be public with him because she deserves to be loved and not ashamed of the romantic, sexual side of her. Alex thanks her and finally informs her family she has a boyfriend but won't let them know who he is. It's also revealed that Haley once told Manny in confidence that she once got into a fight with a parrot, over a cracker. In "Basketball", Haley and Mitch go out for tea and Haley attempts to inform her uncle of something Rainer asked her to do in the bedroom that she wasn't completely comfortable with, however, Rainer arrives and she manages to only get out one syllable. Cameron arrives and they try to figure out what she was going to say. Rainer finally leaves and Haley says that Rainer asks that Rainer asks her to candle him. Cameron googles it and informs Mitch. Rainer comes back and sees the google search on Cam's phone, this prompts Haley and Rainer to talk about what they're comfortable with. They confide secrets and strengthen their relationship. In "Pig Moon Rising", Haley gets The Barnacle stuck on her car due to unpaid parking tickets, Mitch helps her move her car down the street so her parents don't see, he agrees, if she asks Cam to use his connections to get tickets to a concert but secretly give them to him. She agrees, but he dangerously discovers that Haley really shouldn't have her license. Haley asks Cameron for tickets, who makes a deal with her to give them only if she recreates a painting of Lily's that he accidentally destroyed. It falls apart because Cam misheard his friend and doesn't actually have the connection he thought he did. Later, the family's lies are exposed one by one, Manny gets sent a video of Haley and Mitchell moving her car, Claire scolds Haley for having many unpaid parking tickets, Lily see Haley's finger and realizes that Haley actually recreated her painting, Cam informs her he accidentally destroyed her original painting.In "Five Minutes", at dinner, Rainer proposes to Haley, however when a storm begins to happen, Rainer is confused because it wasn't what he predicted on the weather news and questions what else he was off about today. He panics, and raises multiple questions. Where are they going to live? How would his daughter feel? Does Haley want kids with him? Is he able to have more children? Haley informs him that he is spinning and needs to think about it in smaller sections, they should take it 5 years at a time, but she tells her that in 5 years he will be 50, she too panics about his age. He makes him spin again. She brings them back and says it's natural to freak out about making a lifetime commitment. However, when saying this, Haley panics and realizes she doesn't yet want to be committed to one person for the rest of her life. They try to take off her ring and Haley realizes she doesn't want to get married to him yet, she wants to continue just dating him, but he decides he's either getting married or not in a relationship. Leaving them to break up for good.In "Alone Time", a newly single Haley bumps into Dylan who is now married with step-kids. Dylan insists on stopping by the Dunphy household, and a freaked out Haley introduces her family to Dylan's new family. She is visibly freaked out and panicked by the situation throughout the day hoping Dylan will get divorced and want her back. In "The Graduates", Haley and Alex help Phil cry it out about Luke's childhood and him leaving so he does not become a mess at his graduation the way he was a mess at both of theirs. However, this just fully brings out Phil's emotional dad side and he doesn't stop being emotional. When he gets to Luke's graduation, they actually have helped him because he cried so much and so hard at cry that he got it out and according to him it made him "dead inside". However, Haley, Claire, and Alex are instead the ones who become emotional. At night, the parents send off their kids with Luke driving his new $2,000 car. The parents cheer to their kids being independent and venturing out on their own, and ironically, Haley is the only kid who comes out of the house to ask to be refilled on her drink.Season 9In "The Long Goodbye", Luke and Haley are now working together at Jay's country club. Haley must choose between her job obligations to her brother, and the promise of a glamorous life being a wealthy woman's assistant. She takes the assistant job. However, it ends badly when the woman realizes Haley is hotter than her and fires her. Haley witnesses what happened, and gives her back her job. In "Catch of the Day", Haley has been losing her keys a lot lately and she panics, she dunks the dinner they argue over at the sink. She breaks her phone while sleeping outside, realizes she can't live without her phone and begins reading books, opens her eyes further to nature, and the success of her parents. She later tells her to buy a new phone, and goes back to her old self. In "It's the Great Pumpkin, Phil!", Haley auditions to be a dancing singer on a boat, but, it goes awry when the casting director shows her the tape back, and she recognizes she's a very out-of-sync dancer. In "Winner Winner Turkey Dinner", Haley helps her father out with filming and doing magic tricks, acting as his assistant. The entire family come out to watch his final trick as Haley warns them he could die. As things look like they are about to go awry, he impresses them by finishing it successfully.In "In Your Head", Haley meets Arvin Fennerman in Alex's class. Later, he makes a speech telling her that the universe is telling him that they're going to get married and AirPods her his number, however, she thinks it's dumb. She later goes for a job interview at NERP, and uses Arvin's speech to her when Nicole Rosemary Page rejects her. She hires her based on the speech. Haley leaves the building, and accepts Arvin's AirPods of his number. In "Written in the Stars", Haley goes on a date with Arvin and he shows her the stars. He reveals that he made his first telescope when he was 10, which later makes Haley realize that he is too smart and good for her. She walks out of the date, making an excuse to use the toilet, but doesn't come back. He calls Alex later questioning where she might be. Alex mistakes this for his attraction to her. Haley eventually comes back to explain things as she felt bad for just leaving, he comforts her as they talk things out, and then kiss. Alex finally arrives, unfortunately for her, she sees Haley and Arvin kissing. In "Wine Weekend", the family goes on a wine tasting trip and stays in Haley's new boss' country house where the only rule is: Don't touch the tiara. While she continuously tries to be careful, she is the only one who end up messing with the tiara. She lets Manny investigate each family member, before secretly revealing she was wearing it while singing and dancing, and it dropped from her head and cracked. In "Royal Visit", Haley and Alex bring their respective partners home to meet Phil and Claire. They've noticed that Haley has become smarter while dating a prince, but that Alex and Claire are extremely stressed about keeping it a secret. Claire is in a stressed mood, preventing Haley and Dylan from sharing their news. Haley and Dylan try to reveal it in the form of Dylan coming down the chimney as Santa. However, Claire gets stuck. Haley, knowing there is no perfect moment, blurts it out to the family. The family is shocked at first, especially Claire, who together with Phil, wonder if everything will work out alright. In "A Moving Day", Haley and Dylan move out of the Dunphy house with the help of Phil and Claire. Phil remains optimistic about his upcoming grandchild, but, Claire is less than thrilled. Claire is horrified at the size, and how much renovations are needed of their new home. She scolds Haley, who insists she is more grown-up than Claire believes. Haley later discovers she is having twins at her scan and panics, but is calmed by Claire, who apologizes. In "Blasts from the Past", Phil and Claire are cycling in their living room, Haley and Dylan interrupt them, by revealing they are moving in that day. Not only that, but Dylan's mother, Farrah, has come over for a visit. In "SuperShowerBabyBow!", Claire throws Haley a baby shower, however Haley is stressed by how she looks due to her pregnancy symptoms. Alex tries to fix this by inviting a friend more pregnant than her, but the friend just looks more radiant. Claire and Dylan finally bond due to him running away believing the family don't care about him. In "Red Alert", Haley fails at parenting classes, while Dylan exceeds. She attends with Phil, who realizes she is bad. When she tries to help Lily out as she gets her first period, her fears increase as she doesn't help. Dylan comforts her that when the babies arrive her instincts will kick in. Phil comes home after work stressed out, Haley looks after him and swaddles him, he praises her that she's getting good at parenting. In "The Wild", Claire attempts to build two joining cribs for Haley's twins, but fails realizing her weakness is visualization of space and scale. Haley finds that the symptoms of her pregnancy are including her eating junk food a lot and becoming unrecognizable to her face scan at her work. Haley and the girls of the family help Carl, a pizza delivery man, deliver 10 pizzas on time when he has a panic attack and goes crazy with an error at her own work. One of the struggling things go awry with an error at her own work. Haley invites her parents home for dinner. Dylan and Claire find out. Haley tells his parents and Haley has to invite Luke and the Marshalls too. Later, each member of the family find out. Phil and Claire and the wedding guest sets gets out of hand, annoying Haley. Claire sees the mess her family makes and drags Haley into the kitchen, telling her to leave and get eloped because she sees she's stressing her out. At night, Haley wakes Phil and Claire up. She hasn't got married yet. She pulls them down to the kitchen to witness her get married. Phil acts as the minister, Claire, Haley, Luke, Farrah, and Frank are witnesses. In "Commencement", when Alex wants to miss graduation from CalTech, she spirals about leaving college not knowing what to do for her future, Luke and Haley comfort her and she attends. In "A Year of Birthdays", it's revealed Mitchell and Cameron were actually the first to find out about the pregnancy. Haley's waters break and she gives birth in the hospital and Mitchell and Cameron come full circle presenting the twins the same way Cam did with Lily in the very first episode.Season 11In "New Kids On The Block", life is hectic around the Dunphy household as the family adjust to the 'new normal' following the arrival of Haley and Dylan's twins, Poppy and George (Haley loves poppy seeds while George came out looking curious... like Boy George). Everyone around the house is exhausted as the twins can't sleep and perpetually cry. Phil and Claire try to persuade Haley to stop following parenting books and learn from their experiences, but she's stubborn. Claire finds them formula and tries to calm them down, to Haley's annoyance. The trio lock themselves out, Haley complains she has no motherly instincts and can't do anything, but then climbs to the roof and enters a window to finally calm her twins. In "Perfect Pairs", Haley's parents and siblings fake looking after the twins to fulfill their own dreams of being famous.
