seasons 2022-232024-25 The 2023-24 NHL season was the 107th season of operation (106th season of play) of the National Hockey League (NHL). The regular season began on April 20. The Stanley Cup Finals began on June 8, and ended on June 24, 2024, with the Florida Panthers defeating the Edmonton Oilers in seven games, winning their first Stanley Cup in franchise history.[1] This was the final season for the Arizona Coyotes before they suspended operations. It followed the sale of the team's hockey assets to Utah businessman Ryan Smith, who was awarded an expansion team in Salt Lake City to begin play in the 2024-25 season. The Coyotes had until 2029 to construct a new arena, upon which they would have been reactivated as an expansion team with all previous team history, records, and uniforms being maintained. However, in June, the auction was cancelled, and Alex Meruelo left the ownership, leading the team to cease operations.
[2] The Coyotes became the first team to suspend operations since the Brooklyn Americans in 1942. The 2023 NHL entry draft was held on June 28-29, 2023, at Bridgestone Arena in Nashville, Tennessee.[3] Connor Bedard was selected first overall by the Chicago Blackhawks.[4] The NHL held games in Australia for the first time in league history.
The Arizona Coyotes and Los Angeles Kings played on September 23 and 24 at Rod Laver Arena in Melbourne, best known as the main venue for the Australian Open. Since the arena was not designed for ice hockey, the league built a temporary rink akin to other NHL outdoor games, though the arena so retractable roof was closed for the games.[5] Coaching changes Off-season Team 2022-23 coach 2023-24 coach Notes Anaheim Ducks Dallas Eakins Greg Cronin On April 14, 2023, one day after the conclusion of the Ducks' season, the team announced that Eakins' contract would not be renewed. In four seasons with Anaheim, Eakins totaled a 100-147-44 record, with no playoff appearances.[6] Cronin, most recently the head coach of the Colorado Avalanche's American Hockey League (AHL) affiliate, the Colorado Eagles, was named head coach on June 5, 2023.[7] Calgary Flames Darryl Sutter Ryan Huska Sutter was fired on May 1, 2023, two and a half weeks after the conclusion of the Flames' season. In just under three seasons during his second stint as the Flames' head coach, Sutter posted a 103-63-28 record, winning the Jack Adams Award in 2021-22 and reaching the playoffs as Pacific Division champions the same year; the team ultimately lost in the second round.[8] Huska, an assistant coach for Calgary since 2018, was promoted to head coach on June 12, 2023.[9] Columbus Blue Jackets Brad Larsen Mike Babcock (resigned) Pascal Vincent Larsen was fired on April 15, 2023, one day after the conclusion of the Blue Jackets' season. In two seasons with Columbus, Larsen posted a 62-86-16 record, with no playoff appearances. [10] Babcock, most recently head coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs from 2015 to 2019, was named head coach on July 1, 2023.[11] However, after allegations of improper behavior via the Spittin' Chiclets podcast led to an NHLPA investigation into Babcock, he announced his resignation as head coach on September 17, before the start of the preseason.[12][13] Associate coach Pascal Vincent was subsequently promoted to head coach, signing a two-year contract.[12] Nashville Predators John Hynes Andrew Brunette Hynes was fired on May 30, 2023, a month and a half seasons with Nashville, Hynes registered a 134-96-18 record, reaching the playoffs three times, but failing to advance past the first round.[14] Brunette, most

Hiller, an assistant coach, was promoted to interim head coach.[21][22] Minnesota Wild Dean Evason John Hynes Evason was fired on November 27, 2023, after the Wild started the season 5-10-4. In parts of five seasons with Minnesota, Evason posted a 147-77-27 record, reaching the playoffs four times but failing to advance past the first round. [23] Hynes, most recently head coach of the Nashville Predators from 2020 to 2023, was named head coach the same day. [24] New Jersey Devils Lindy Ruff Travis Green* Ruff was fired on March 4, 2024, after the Devils started 30-27-4. In just over three-and-a-half seasons with New Jersey, Ruff totaled a 128-125-28 record, with one playoff appearance. Green, the associate coach, and previously head coach of the Vancouver Canucks from 2017 to 2021, was promoted to interim head coach the same day.[25] New York Islanders Lane Lambert Patrick Roy Lambert was fired on January 20, 2024, after the Islanders started the season 19-15-11. In a season and a half with New York, Lambert recorded a 61-46-20 record, making the playoffs in his only full year. Roy, most recently head coach of the Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League (QMJHL) from 2018 to 2023, and previously head coach of the Colorado Avalanche from 2013 to 2016, was named head coach the season 11-15-0. In just over four seasons with Ottawa, Smith compiled a 131-154-32 record, with no playoff appearances. Martin, a senior advisor to the coaching staff who previously served as the team's head coach from 1996 to 2011, was promoted to interim head coach. [27] St. Louis Blues Craig Berube Drew Bannister* Berube was fired on December 12, 2023, after the Blues started the season 13-14-1. In parts of six seasons with St. Louis, Berube compiled a 206-132-44 record with four playoff appearances, leading the franchise to its first Stanley Cup championship in 2019. Bannister, previously the head coach of the Blues' AHL affiliate, the Springfield Thunderbirds, was promoted to interim head coach.[28] Winnipeg Jets Rick Bowness(temporary, October 23 - November 24) Scott Arniel* On October 23, 2023, Bowness announced that he was taking a temporary leave of absence after his wife suffered a seizure and was admitted to the hospital. Arniel, the associate coach, took over as interim head coach, [29] and totaled a 9-2-2 record before Bowness returned from his leave on November 24.[30] (*) Indicates interim General managers Off-season Team 2022-23 general manager Notes Calgary Flames Brad Treliving Don Maloney*Craig Conroy On April 17, 2023, five days after the conclusion of the Flames' season, and with his contract expiring, the team and Treliving mutually agreed to part ways. Treliving had served as general manager of the New York Islanders and Arizona Coyotes, and most recently a pro scout, was subsequently promoted to president of hockey operations, and assumed the role of interim general manager. [31] Conroy, formerly the assistant general manager on May 23. [32] Nashville Predators David Poile Barry Trotz Poile announced on February 26, 2023, that he would retire as GM on June 30, but remain as a consultant. The sole general manager in Predators history until his retirement, Poile had served in the role since 1997, overseeing fifteen playoff appearances, two Central Division titles, one President's Trophy, and one Stanley Cup Finals appearance. Poile also won the Jim Gregory General Manager of the Year Award in 2017. Trotz, who served as the team's first coach from 1997 to 2014, and most recently was head coach of the New York Islanders from 2018 to 2022, was announced as Poile's successor on the same day, formally assuming the general manager role on July 1.[33] Philadelphia Flyers Chuck Fletcher Daniel Briere* Daniel Brie

[161] On April 2, 2024, Buffalo Sabres forward Jeff Skinner played his 1,000th NHL game, becoming the 397th player to reach the mark, as well as the first to do so without having appeared in a playoff game.[162] On April 7, 2024, Carolina Hurricanes goaltender Frederik Andersen recorded his 294th win in his 494th game, surpassing Braden Holtby for the most goaltender wins through their first 500 games.[163] On April 9, 2024, Toronto Maple Leafs forward Auston Matthews scored his 66th goal of the season, surpassing Alexander Ovechkin's modern record of 65 goals set in 2007-08. In addition, Matthews became the first player to score more than 65 goals in a single season since Mario Lemieux accomplished the feat in 1995-96.[164] On April 9, 2024, Washington Capitals forward Alexander Ovechkin scored his 30th goal of the season, becoming the first player in NHL history to record 18 seasons of at least 30 goals.[165] On April 11, 2024, Toronto Maple Leafs forward Auston Matthews scored his 50th even-strength goal of the season, becoming the seventh player to reach the mark, and the first since Teemu Selanne did so in 1992-93.[166] On April 11, 2024, Pittsburgh Penguins forward Sidney Crosby recorded his 1,000th assist, becoming the 14th player to enter the top ten since Jaromir Jagr did so in 2007-08.[168] On April 13, 2024, Pittsburgh Penguins defenseman Erik Karlsson played his 1,000th NHL game, becoming the 398th player to reach the mark.[169] On April 13, 2024, Detroit Red Wings goaltender James Reimer played his 500th game, becoming the 80th goaltender to reach the mark.[170] On April 14, 2024, Calgary Flames forward Yegor Sharangovich recorded his 59th point of the season, setting a new single-season record for points among Belarusian players, and surpassing the record previously held by Mikhail Grabovski.[171][172] On April 15, 2024, Edmonton Oilers forward Connor McDavid recorded his 100th assist season in NHL history.[173] On April 15, 2024, Nashville Predators defenseman Jeremy Lauzon recorded his 383rd hit of the season, setting a new single-season record for hits, and surpassing the record previously held by Matt Martin.[174] On April 17, 2024, Tampa Bay Lightning forward Nikita Kucherov recorded his 100th assist of the season, becoming the fifth individual to reach the mark, and accomplishing the 15th 100-assist season in NHL history. In addition, Kucherov and Connor McDavid became the second pair of players to reach 100 assists in 1988-89.[175] On May 20, 2024, Edmonton Oilers defenseman Evan Bouchard recorded his 20th point of the playoffs, becoming the first defenseman in NHL history to total 20 points through the first two rounds of the playoffs.[176] On June 2, 2024, the Edmonton Oilers won the Western Conference, making Oilers forward Corey Perry the first player in NHL history to reach the Stanley Cup Finals with five different franchises.[177] On June 16, 2024, Edmonton Oilers forward Connor McDavid recorded his 32nd assist of the playoffs, setting a new single-playoff record for assists, and surpassing the record previously held by Wayne Gretzky.[178] On June 15, 2024, Edmonton Oilers forward Connor McDavid recorded his 40th point of the playoffs, becoming the third individual to reach the mark, and accomplishing the fifth 40-point playoff in NHL history.[179] On June 18, 2024, Edmonton Oilers forward Connor McDavid recorded four points in game five of the 2024 Stanley Cup Finals, marking his second consecutive Finals, mar Zach Hyman scored his 16th goal of the playoffs, setting a new record for single-postseason goals in the salary-cap era, and surpassing the record previously held by Sidney Crosby and Alexander Ovechkin.[181] In the process, Hyman became the third player to reach the mark in the past 30 years, after Pavel Bure and Joe Sakic.[182] On June 24, 2024, the Florida Panthers won the Stanley Cup, making Panthers captain Aleksander Barkov the first Finnish-born captain to lead a team to the Cup.[183] Panthers won the Stanley Cup, making Panthers captain Aleksander Barkov the first Finnish-born captain to lead a team to the Cup.[183] Panthers won the Stanley Cup, making Panthers head coach, and having coached 1,848 regular-season games, also set a new record for most seasons and games as head coach before winning the Cup.[184][185] This was the tenth season of the league's 12-year Canadian national broadcast rights deal with Sportsnet. This included Sportsnet to air Saturday Hockey Night in Canada (HNIC) games on CBC Television and French-language broadcasts on TVA Sports.[186] Sportsnet's national schedule also included Monday Night Hockey, Wednesday Night Hockey, Wednesday Night Hockey, Wednesday Night Hockey, this season's four outdoor games on January 20, and All-Star Weekend.[187] HNIC games aired across CBC, one or more of the four Sportsnet feeds, Sportsnet One, Sportsnet One, Sportsnet 360, or Citytv; decisions on network assignments were made on a week-by-week basis, and select HNIC games were simulcast on multiple networks.[187][188] Games were streamed on Sportsnet+, with national games available on the Premium tier, and via authenticated streaming on participating teams.[189] Regular season games on CBC were also simulcast on CBC Gem, which replaced CBCSports.ca.[190] Longtime commentator John Garrett retired from Vancouver Canucks broadcasts before the season. Sportsnet later announced that Dave Tomlinson, formerly a radio analyst for the Seattle Kraken, would take over as the primar TV analyst for Canucks regional broadcasts, with ESPN lead analyst Ray Ferraro working as a substitute for select games. [192] On December 18, analyst Cassie Campbell-Pascall left Sportsnet to become a special advisor in the U.S. in a smaller role.[194] This was the third season of the league's seven-year U.S. national broadcast rights deals with the ESPN family of networks and TNT Sports (formerly Warner Bros Discovery Sports during the previous 2022-23 season, and Turner Sports two seasons prior).[195] Regular season games were aired exclusively on ESPN on selected Tuesdays, Thursdays, and weekends; and ABC on selected Saturdays between mid-January and mid-April. ESPN+ and Hulu exclusively streamed games primarily on Tuesdays, and weekends throughout the season.[a] During All-Star Weekend, ESPN had the All-Star Star Game. Both Stadium Series games were broadcast by ABC. A Presidents' Day doubleheader on February 19 was also scheduled on ESPN this season. Under the "NHL Power Play on ESPN this season, ESPN collaborated with Disney

Wednesday nights throughout the season, the Thanksgiving Showdown on November 24, Winter Classic, and selected Sunday games between late February and April. Not all of TNT's regular season games were exclusive broadcasts and were thus subject to blackout in local markets. [199] WBD invoked its over-the-top streaming rights for Max, adding live sports telecasts from WBD channels; these broadcasts were available at no additional charge until a later date, after which viewers must subscribe to the Bleacher Report Sports add-on. [200] This season's Heritage Classic instead aired on TBS due to TNT's soccer coverage of U.S. women's national soccer team. [201] TruTV also began airing simulcasted/alternative broadcasts of selected TNT games, [202] TruTV also televised a youth-oriented alternate broadcast, using the NHL's player and puck tracking system to render a live animated version of the Colorado Avalanche-Vegas Golden Knights game on April 14, 2024, portrayed by WBD characters featured in the MultiVersus video game.[203] NHL Network continued to also nationally televise selected regular season games, including Saturday and Sunday afternoon games as part of the NHL Network Showcase series. The Washington rebranded as Monumental Sports Network before the start of the season. In September 2022, Monumental Sports & Entertainment bought out NBCUniversal's ownership stake in the channel. [204] [205] See also: Diamond Sports Group's March 14, 2023, decision to file for bankruptcy. Diamond Sports Group's March 14, 2023, decision to file for bankruptcy. had initially sought to continue broadcasting regional games while it plans to separate from majority parent Sinclair Broadcast Group as part of the reorganization. [206] The Los Angeles Kings renewed their contract with Bally Sports West despite Diamond's bankruptcy. The Kings also reached an agreement with KCAL-TV for the rights to six games and select half-hour specials.[207][208] On October 4, 2023, Diamond announced that it intended to reject its Bally Sports Arizona contract with the E. W. Scripps Company's sports division Scripps Sports, under which it carried games on a subchannel of its Phoenix broadcast station and ABC affiliate KNXV-TV, and syndicate them to sister stations in the team's broadcast territory, including KGUN-TV in Tucson, Arizona, and KUPX-TV and KSTU-DT2 in Salt Lake City. The Coyotes aired non-game programs on KNXV and sister The CW affiliate KASW.[210][211] With Bally Sports Arizona already previously losing airing rights to the Phoenix Suns to Gray Television and the Arizona Diamondbacks to the MLB itself earlier in the year, they decided to wind down services for the month before concluding on October 21, 2023. On December 20, 2023, Diamond Sports and the NHL reached an agreement that resulted in the contracts for teams airing on Diamond expiring after the 2023-24 NHL season.[212] However, on January 17, 2024, Diamond Sports announced a restructuring agreement with the NHL, so rights for the NHL would no longer expire following the 2023-24 season, [213][214] In February 2023. Warner Bros, Discovery announced it was winding down its AT&T SportsNet regional sports network business, affecting the Pittsburgh and AT&T SportsNet Rocky Mountain, respectively. The Seattle Kraken's deal with Root Sports Northwest was not affected because Warner Bros. Discovery only held minority control of that network.[215][216] On May 4, 2023, the Golden Knights signed a multi-year agreement with Scripps Sports to start airing games on Scripps' Las Vegas broadcast station KMCC, and syndicate the telecasts to other stations across the team's broadcast territory; both KMCC and Salt Lake City's KUPX-TV were converted from Ion Television stations to independents to accommodate the team's broadcasts, along with Scripps's Montana Television Network, whose second digital subchannels previously carried The CW.[217] On August 30, 2023, the Penguins announced that they would acquire AT&T SportsNet Pittsburgh, which rebranded on October 2 as SportsNet Pittsburgh. The channel is operated by NESN—the regional broadcaster of the Boston Bruins—which is majority-owned by the Penguins' parent company Fenway Sports Group.[218][219] ESPN/ABC studio analyst Chris Chelios, who served in the role for two seasons, left the network as part of its June 2023 cost-cutting measures. [220][221] Chelios later made appearances on TNT during the season. In October, studio analyst Keith Jones left the network to become president of hockey operations with the Philadelphia Flyers. Before joining the Flyers' front office, Jones also worked as the team's TV color analyst for 23 seasons, while also working as a studio and game analyst with NBC and later TNT.[35] To replace Jones, TNT hired Brian Boucher also replaced Jones as a primary analyst on the Flyers' television broadcasts. [224][225] The Chicago Blackhawks hired Darren Pang to be their lead TV color commentator. Pang, who spent 14 years in the same role with the St. Louis Blues and is also a color commentator on TNT, replaces both Colby Cohen, whose contract with the team was not renewed[226][227] and Patrick Sharp, who left to also join the Flyers front office, along with Jamie Rivers, who had been the backup color commentator whenever Pang worked for TNT before the announcement. [228] The Los Angeles Kings started using TV/radio simulcasts, keeping radio announcers Nick Nickson and Daryl Evans, and TV analyst Jim Fox. However, they did not renew the TV play-by-play announcers swapped roles, with Josh Getzoff moving from radio to TV, and Steve Mears moving from TV to radio.[229][230] However, the team let go Bob Errey, their TV color commentator.[231] To replace him, a rotation of Colby Armstrong, Mike Rupp, and Phil Bourque, who also provides color commentary on radio, is used.[232] The Seattle Kraken hired Al Kinisky as their radio analyst, replacing Dave Tomlinson, who moved to the Vancouver Canucks television booth.[233] Columbus Blue Jackets TV play-by-play announcer Jeff Rimer announced his retirement at the end of the season. Rimer, the TV voice of the Blue Jackets starting in the 2005-06 season, also had stints with the Washington Capitals and the Florida Panthers. [234] Boston Bruins TV play-by-play announced his retirement at the end of the season. Edwards joined the Bruins broadcast team before the 2005-06 season after several stints as an anchor and reporter on various networks, most notably with ESPN's SportsCenter. [235] 2023-24 NHL transactions 2024 in sports 2024 in ice hockey ^ For commercial customers,
