Welcome to our comprehensive Genshin Impact Tier List, where we break down the best characters to help you conquer Teyvat's toughest challenges. Whether you're assembling a powerful team for Spiral Abyss or just exploring the world, this guide will rank each character based on their performance in various roles, including Main DPS, Sub DPS and support. 1. Genshin Impact 5.6 Tier List Our Tier List for Genshin Impact organises characters into 3 roles. A Main DPS,Sub DPS and Support. Click their icons to open a characters build guide! Some characters rank in our Tier List multiple times where they can fit multiple roles, for example Raiden Shogun who can be a Main DPS,Sub DPS and Support. Many support characters do have the ability to provide off-field damage or apply an element however if there is a significant difference then they have been omitted. Tier lists can be great for showing a rough estimate of a character's performance relative to other characters in their role. Please know that every character in Genshin Impact is viable regardless of their ranking and can clear all content with enough investment. Make sure to pick the character you like and want over the character that performs better! 2. Genshin Impact 5.6 Tier List Changes and Additions Below are the most recent changes to our tier list which is the changes in patch 5.6 which focuses on the release of Escoffier and Ifa. Character Explanation Escoffier We have tentatively placed Escoffier in the "Sub DPS" tier given she can do both great healing as well as off-field damage. Escoffier has amazing role compression bringing healing, the most powerful RES Shred in the game (for Hydro and Cryo units) and really good damage too. The only thing holding Escoffier back from is the fact she is heavily limited, however her strengths currently outshine this given her value on the rest of the S+ tiered DPS and synergy with Furina. Ifa Ifa is a decent Anemo healer, but at the same time is another VV holder with a slight difference. This time however, being centered around electro-charged which just recently had an Anemo catalyst holder. While Ifa is better than Yumemizuki Mizuki, his healing at times can cause you to struggle in some situations and electro-charged remains to be a weaker reaction anyway. Kamisato Ayaka Ayaka is a great DPS and with the addition of Escoffier should now shine. Escoffier is a huge increase to Ayaka's DPS allowing her to compete with other recent releases and has currently been raised to S+ tier on our Tier List. Patch 5.6 General A range of adjustments to our Genshin Tier List in patch 5.6, these are: Shenhe has been raised to S tier with Cryo finally receiving some love. Ganyu and Wriothesley have not been changed as the recent changes do not impact their best teams (melt), but simply raise the floor on their worst teams (freeze). Lan Yan has been dropped to A tier with Lan Yan not really seeing much representation at endgame with her functionality not being different enough compared to other characters. Yumemizuki Mizuki has been dropped down a tier with Ifa's release just simply doing the same job but better. 3. Tier List Explanations and Ranking Criteria Our Tier List for Genshin Impact groups characters as either a Main DPS,Sub DPS or a support. Main DPS: A character who spends the majority of their time on-field in the team to deal massive damage.Sub DPS: Characters that have good elemental application to create Elemental Reactions for the team or deal high amounts of damage while off-field.Support: Healers, Shielders and buffers. These characters may also deal some damage while off-field but their value lies in the supportive utility they give the party. Characters are then ranked in their respective role based on D to S+ rankings based on their damage, ease of play, elemental application, buffs they provide to the team and how widely used they are. Characters in the same tier are simply in alphabetical order and generally speaking it is pointless to compare characters in the same tier due to them rarely overlapping directly in roles and having different elements that allow them to be more or less suitable based on the fight.3.1. Check Tier Criteria & Roles Here Tier Explanations & Criteria Explanation For RolesDPS-Main DPS are characters that is on-field the most using their attacks to deal damage. Sub-DPS- Sub-DPS are characters who provide additional damage with its skills. - Most of the Sub-DPS characters can also inflict elements on the enemies for the Main DPS to trigger.Support: Supports are mainly buffers for the team boosting the damage of the teams with their skills. - They can also provide QoL skills like crowd-control, heals, shields or taunt for easier fights. Criteria For TiersSS TierDPS: Top class damage that outclasses other characters. Flexible team comps. Is not limited to specific characters to produce outstanding damage. - Great at both single target and multiple targets. Sub-DPS- Top Class Off-Field Damage that has amazing up-time. - Amazing Elemental Infliction to both single-target and multiple enemies. - Amazing at multiple team comps and is a crucial member to some. - Can be great at instantaneous damage. Support (incl. Heal)- Buff and healing capabilities greatly increases damage or survivability of the team. - Best pick or great pick for multiple characters and team comps. Note: Healing is included in Support. More Details Per TierS TierDPS Produces amazing damage.- Is great at either single or multiple targets. Sub-DPS- Provides strong DMG off-field and is utilized by many characters. - Decent Elemental infliction to enemies. - Does not need a long on-field time. Support (incl. Heal)- Buff and protection works well or strong with multiple characters. - Does not take many time on-field and has great impact. - Support Up-time is manageable or have a close to 100% up-time. A TierDPS- Produces good damage against single target or multiple enemies at certain situations.- Requires a fairly high amount of investment to be competitive against S Tier and above. Sub-DPS- Average elemental infliction.- Off-field skill does not have 100% Up-time. May need a fairly high on-field time.- Investment is required to be consistent. Support (incl. Heal)- Amazing buff but has short effect or less impactful than S or SS tier characters. B TierDPS- Provides average damage.- Requires a very high amount of investment to be competitive.- Character can be difficult to use. Sub-DPS- Provides off-field damage but the damage is not that good or only works at specific comps.- Requires a high amount of investment to be competitive Support (incl. Heal)- Support capability effects are good for a specific niche.- Requires a decent amount of investment to be consistent. C TierDPS- Provides good damage at specific comps. - Can be clunky to use and requires a high amount of investment to be competitive. Sub-DPS- Provides low off-field damage or has a high on-field time. - Has great teams but is often easily replaced or not the best pick for those teams. Support (incl. Heal)- Support capability is clunky or there are better character options. - Can do well at very specific team comps. D TierDPS- Provides good damage but requires high amount of investments and powerful supports to be competitive. Sub-DPS- Provides off-field damage but has specific conditions.- Poor off-field damage but has very low damage.- Can be used on specific teams but is easily replaced. Support (incl. The so-called Tier Lists are lists of records in which video game characters are classified, from highest to lowest, by levels of power or strength.They are useful for gamers or role-players as they help them know what chances they have of success if they choose one avatar or another in a melee fight, in free-to-play shooters to form teams or to star in an online game. Thus, these organizational lists are sought after by creators and teams of developers to know the taste of users as well as to launch updates.With Edit.org, you can easily create in less than a minute and online a list of levels to rate your favorite characters and share them with your blog readers or social media followers. Also, if you are a teacher, you can use these charts to create didactic activities with your students. You can download it to print in high quality or share it in different formats. Free empty tier list templatesThere are no rules for creating a Tier List. Your Tier List will be considered effective, as long as the graphic you design with Edit.org clearly shows which avatars have a better winning ratio in fights or a better chance of passing tests and screens.The importance of the Tier List is relative. Sometimes, some characters considered "terrible" are fun and ideal for other users to use. It happens because the developers create the avatars thinking about different types of players. That is, a character may be "awful" because of its simplicity for an expert player.However, that same character for a new player may be the most optimal and immersive to become familiar with the possibilities of the game and find a higher degree of enjoyment.
