Rising stars format

Before the 2025 NBA All-Stars come out to play in San Francisco, we'll get to see the young studs tearing it up. That's right, it's the annual Rising Stars event, which has gone from being a game to a whole tournament. Here's how it works: four teams will play each other, and they'll have a target score to hit (the Elam Ending!), and the winners of the first two games will play each other for the title. And the winning team will play in the All-Star Game tournament on Sunday. Got it? Good. Here's a look at the four rosters coached by some NBA legends, with one team made up of G Leaguers: Team G League -- Jeremy Lin, coachLeonard Miller, Iowa WolvesJD Davison, Maine CelticsMac McClung, Osceola MagicBryce McGowens, Rip City RemixDink Pate, Mexico City CapitanesReed Sheppard, Houston Rockets/Rio Grande Valley VipersPat Spencer, Golden State Warriors/Santa Cruz Warriors/S HeatZaccharie Risacher, Atlanta HawksAlex Sarr, Washington WizardsBrandin Podziemski, Golden State WarriorsTeam M -- Mitch Richmond, coachToumani Camara, Portland Trail BlazersJulian Strawther, Denver NuggetsBub Carrington, Washington WizardsBilal Coulibaly, Washington WizardsYves Missi, New Orleans PelicansAmen Thompson, Houston RocketsAusar Thompson, Detroit PistonsTeam C -- Chris Mullin, coachWhat's the format for the 2025 Rising Stars tournament? NBA All StarThe NBA made a major change to format of the All-Star Game, which will be played this Sunday at Chase Center in the Bay area. Here's why and what changed. Joined Diario AS USA in 2021 and now covers mostly American sports (primarily NFL, NBA, and MLB) as well as soccer from around the world. Update: Feb 14th, 2025 15:01 ESTThe NBA All-Star Weekend kicks off tonight, Friday February 14 with the Celebrity All-Star Game and Rising Stars Challenge The events continue on Saturday and, as is typical, will conclude on Sunday with the final All-Star Game. This year, however, the NBA made a significant change to the past, the NBA All-Star game was always just one 48-minute game between the Eastern Conference and Western Conference with teams chosen by the leading vote-getters. Last year, the NBA returned to an East vs West game. That format ended in a 397-point affair that was widely criticized. So this year, the NBA is introducing a brand new, four-team mini-tournament to be played at the Golden State Warriors' Chase Center this Sunday.Three teams of NBA All-Stars, plus the winner of the annual Rising Stars challenge will make up the four teams. Charles Barkley, Shaquille O'Neal, and Kenny Smith are the honorary coached by TNT analyst and WNBA legend Candace Parker, and we'll know her roster by the end of the night tonight at the conclusion of the Rising Stars Challenge, which will be played as a four-team tournament as well, will take place tonight at 9 p.m. ET. It will feature the league's best rookies and sophomores plus seven players from the G League. The winner of that tournament comprises the four NBA All-Star teams will have eight players (24 total), the same as in previous years. In the mini-tournament, Kenny's Young Stars will face Chuck's Global Stars in the first semifinal (Game 1), and Shaq's OG's will play Candace's Rising Stars in the second semifinal (Game 2). Then, the winner of Game 2 in the championship (Game 3). For each game, the winner of Game 1 will play the winner of Game 2 in the championship (Game 3). semifinal matchups and team names for the 2025 NBA All-Star Game: Chuck's Global Stars vs. Kenny's Young Stars Shaq's OGs vs. Candace's Rising Stars The semifinal winners will advance to meet in the championship. The prize pool is $1.8 million this year, with the winning team's players to receive $125,000 each. The runners up will receive $50,000 each, and the losing teams' players will receive $25,000 each. Why the change? For several years now, NBA Commissioner Adam Silver has been trying to find ways to make the All-Star event more competitive. It's difficult, as there's nothing really at stake and it's a bit of a fun break for the players, despite their being money involved (which is an incentive for the players, but not the fans). After last year's game saw the teams score 211 and 186 points in Indianapolis, Silver heard the criticism and made a change. "I think everyone was disappointed in what they saw last year," Silver said back in November. "It wasn't just the league, it was the players, as well the players association. I think we all did what we thought we could, thinking we would - particularly in Indiana, sort of the heartland of basketball - somehow we would give it the college try, and we'd see a more competitive game.""We all want to do a better job providing competitive game. ""We all want to do a better job providing competition and entertainment for our fans." Thus, this new format was born as a way of trying to "excite the fans and also excite the players, so it's something they're enthusiastic about participating in". The NBA insists that putting competitive athletes in a competitive situation will guarantee they show up and play hard. We will have to see this weekend. But the shorter game with a 40-point score limit will definitely help things along. Mandatory Credit: Kyle Terada-USA TODAY Sports February 14, 2025 | 8:11 PM EST The Rising Stars game is among the first events during the NBA All-Star break. In this event, the NBA showcases the very best of its young talent. There have been some recent changes to the game that should be known ahead of time. What Is the Rising Stars Game? When Does It Start and How To Watch In short, the Rising Stars game features NBA players exclusively in their rookie or sophomore year in the NBA competing against each other. It used to be rookies vs. sophomores, but the rosters were changed to include both rookies and sophomores. In recent years, they have also included NBA G League players in the event to turn it into a tournament instead of one game. The Rising Stars game starts at 9:00 pm Eastern Time. The game will be broadcast on both TNT and truTV. Who Will Play in the Rising Stars Game? Four teams will appear in the Rising Stars game: Team T, coached by Tim Hardaway Sr., Team M, coached by Mitch Richmond, Team C, coached by Chris Mullin, and Team T: Anthony Black, Orlando Magic Tristan da Silva, Orlando Magic Risacher, Atlanta Hawks Alex Sarr, Washington Wizards Team M: Matas Buzelis, Chicago Bulls Toumani Camara, Portland Trail Blazers Bub Carrington, Washington Wizards Julian Strawther, Denver Nuggets Amen Thompson, Houston Rockets Ausar Thompson, Detroit Pistons Team C: Stephon Castle, San Antonio Spurs Ryan Dunn, Phoenix Suns Zach Edey - Memphis Grizzlies Keyonte George, Utah Jazz Trayce Jackson-Davis, Golden State Warriors Dalton Knecht, Los Angeles Lakers Jaylen Wells, Memphis Grizzlies Keyonte George, Utah Jazz Trayce Jackson-Davis, Golden State Warriors Dalton Knecht, Los Angeles Lakers Jaylen Wells, Memphis Grizzlies Keyonte George, Utah Jazz Trayce Jackson-Davis, Golden State Warriors Dalton Knecht, Los Angeles Lakers Jaylen Wells, Memphis Grizzlies Keyonte George, Utah Jazz Trayce Jackson-Davis, Golden State Warriors Dalton Knecht, Los Angeles Lakers Jaylen Wells, Memphis Grizzlies Keyonte George, Utah Jazz Trayce Jackson-Davis, Golden State Warriors Dalton Knecht, Los Angeles Lakers Jaylen Wells, Memphis Grizzlies Team G League: JD Davison, Boston Celtics Mac Mac Magnetic Research Control of Contro Timberwolves Dink Pate, Mexico City Capitanes Reed Sheppard, Houston Rockets Pat Spencer, Golden State Warriors For reference, Richmond, Hardaway, and Mullin are coaching because they are all former Warriors teammates and were best known for their nickname "Run TMC," based on the popular rap group, "Run DMC," whose popularity coincided with theirs back in the 1980s and 1990s. How Is the Rising Stars Game Formatted? The tournament will have two rounds, two semifinals advances to the finals, and whoever wins the finals will face off with the NBA's All-Stars during the 2025 All-Star Game tournament on Sunday, Feb. 16. as part of a team headlined by Candace Parker. The semifinals games are first to 50, and the finals are first to 50, and the finals game year over year. However, what doesn't change is the fact that the NBA is laden with young stars, ready to showcase their skills in the spotlight. This year, the winning team in the Rising Stars Challenge will join the NBA All-Star Game as part of the four-team tournament debuting this year. This game is always a big opportunity for younger players to make a name for themselves, and that's truer than ever this year. Here is this year's Rising Stars' roster. Team M Team M is coached by Mitch Richmond. Richmond averaged 21 points per game and spent his first three years in the league with the Golden State Warriors, where he became a star and won Rookie of the Year in 1988. How players were selected In selecting the NBA players for Castrol Rising Stars, each NBA team submitted one ballot per coaching staff. Each coaching staff selected four frontcourt players at either position, in order of preference, for the rookie ballot and the sophomore ballot. Coaches were not permitted to vote for any player on their team. The NBA participants for Castrol Rising Stars were determined by the total points each player received from the ballots. Points were awarded based on where a player was ranked on each ballot. The player pool includes one more sophomore than rookie based on total points received. The coaches A trio of Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Famers are among the four coaches who will serve as honorary head coaches for the Castrol Rising Stars. The NBA announced Tim Hardaway Sr., Chris Mullin and Mitch Richmond — all of whom are former Golden State Warriors players — will serve as honorary coaches as will former NBA player and Warriors guard Jeremy Lin. Assistant coaches from the NBA All-Star Game coaching staffs - the Cleveland Cavaliers and Oklahoma City Thunder - will join the honorary head coaches in coaching the Castrol Rising Stars teams.
